An Exciting Ride on a Wheel.
Rudolph Schubart, of J. W. Grubb's iewelry store, had a rather novel and exciting experience while out on his bleycle Thursday evening. He was riding down the two-mile hill on the Cadia, pike, back of Bridgeport, using the pedals in connection with the brake to hold back, when his foot slipped and he lost control of the machine. In an instant he was going at about lightning speed, and knowing that to use the brake or try to replace his feet on the pedals would be dangerous, he was forced to let her go and try to check up slowly. He rode mearly a mile in this way, and was in a fair way to make the run to the bottom in safety, when he became overbalanced in making a turn in the road, and was thrown fitteen feet, headlong, into the bushes. He hurt his knee badly and was generally bruised up, and to add to his discomfiture the machine lit on top of him.
